HONGRONG, NOVEMBER 17TH, 1898.

When the postal rate from England to the Eastern Colonies was reduced to 21d. Singapore reduced its return rate to 5 cents, while in Hongkoug the reduction was only to 7 cents. This rate was not fixed arbitrarily by the Government, but was arrived Commerce. The idea that the postal service securing low rates does not find acceptance ance by kind permission of Colonel Robinson locally, and 7 cents was fixed upon as a rate which would about pay for the service without leaving any large profit. The Singapore turned out a less well advised one, for it is now found necessary to increase the rate charged in that Colony. In his speech at the open- had been reduced to ashes. Any further reduction, however, would at present be out of the question, nor is there any general demand for it. The public is fairly well satisfied with the present rate but would appreciate the introduction of a seven cent stamp so that it would no longer be compulsory to use two stamps where one would do. To make the posters of letters buy a 5 cent samp and a 2-cent stamp instead of supplying them with one to cover the whole amount is a Sleepy Hollow sort of arrangement quite in keeping with Hongkong Governmental procedure

PEACH-TREE JOE. BY SARAH ORNE JEWETT.

All the licenous applied for were granted, there I had mounted the corner of a grain-bln in the table, and sat there swinging one foot and idly wetching John, the meeter-or-horse, who was duvoting an hour of leisure to my favourite mare. She blinked her eyes in the spring sunlight that streamed in across the stable floor, and titted tenderly a fore foot that had once been lame. This foot was apt to draw attention to itself, as if former comfortable rubbings were still remembered. I could not disguise the truth; as I looked at her, that she was no longer young, but I flattered myself that she might be good for many years yet,

John brushed and emoothed her silky coat again and again, and carefully picked the few tangles out of her thin mune; flicked at her sharp cars, and then, holding her firmly by the called a scary fellow nor a coward as he knew of, nose, stood looking her full in the face with an | till he come out there. abstracted air. I could hear the ring of tools and the click-clack of shors in the shrubbery. Summer had come all at once after much dark weather. There was a young peach tree in full flower at the left of the stable

The leading characteristic of the Matabelos is their warlike spirit. They are soldiers and that only. They form the diffe of the native fighting mon of South Africa. They are taught the uss of firearms in early childhood, and are from that age subjected to a featining of such Spartan severity that many of the boys die in the course of it. These succumb either to the numerous hardships and privations they have to undergo or fall victims in the close combats with wiid be sis into which they are forcibly driven by their lutors. The boys who sarvive reach manhood as real heroes in the fight. But this heroism, one of man's noblest virtues, is burbarously misepplied for annual predatory raids, in which grown men, old people and babies are killed on the spot, boys, women, and critic being taken away as captives. Since 1837, when the Matabelo kingdom was established, at least 150,000 human beings have been slain in these

NOW ON SALE . (MPBR) AL QUARTO. EDNGLISH AND CHINESE

DICTIONARY

WITH THE PUSTI AND MANDARIN PRONUNCIATION. An Anglo-Chinese Dictionary, published at the Daily Press Office, Hongkong For comprehensiveness and practical service this Work stands unrivalled. All the new words which the Chinese have of latey ears been compelled to coin to express the numerous ob-INTERTANEOUS VIEWS, GROUPS and Por. and in science generally, which the rapid advance IBAITS tre taken in any state of the weather, of foreign relations has imposed upon them, are here given in extenso. Each and every word is fully illustrated and explained, forming exercises for students of a most instructive nature. Both the Court and Punti pronunciations are given the accents being carefully marked on the heat principle hitherto attained. The typography displays the success of an attempt to make the Chinese and English type correspond in the size of hody, thereby effecting a vast economy of space, achieving a clearness not previously attained, and dispensing with those vast margins and vacant spaces which have heretofore characterized Chinese publications. To illustrate the vast scope of the work the following factors submitted for consideration :-Chalmers Vecabulary contains about 16,000 Analysed and Certificated by Professor Cassall Chinese characters, and Medhurst's English and Chinese Dictionary about 100,000, whilst diesseitigen Handelregister, sowie andere this work contains more than 50,000 English ters. Again, despite all the grammars and student of this difficult language absolutely requires examples to display the various applications and equivalents of different words which have one general meaning. Of these examples this work contains more than five times as many as any other Dictionary hitherte pub-For practical purposes the arrangement of the work is so complete, that a reference to its pages enables a person who understands English WHITE SEAL SHERRY-Popular at the to communicate effectively with natives who understand nothing but Chinese. In this respect the work will be found indispensable to all Europeans residing in China, and to the natives 19268 themselves it explains subjects fully with which very few indeed of them are perfectly acquainted. To parties resident in England and interested n China it cannot but be invaluable occasion-It comprises upwards of two thousand large quarto pages.
